FLY ON THE WALL THEATRE presents
The Canadian Professional Premiere of Dublin Carol by Conor McPherson

"Respect is no good to you when you're gone. If you don't earn it while you're alive, don't be looking for it just because you've happened to die"

Toronto, ON - Fly on the Wall Theatre continues its exploration of the works of acclaimed Irish playwright, Conor McPherson, with the Canadian professional premiere of Dublin Carol, Nov. 14-26, 2017, at Toronto's Artscape Youngplace, 180 Shaw Street.

Dublin undertaker, John Plunkett, is a man haunted by his past – a past he would sooner forget. It's the morning of Christmas Eve and he's back in his office with his new assistant, after overseeing an early morning funeral. Then an unexpected visit from his estranged daughter throws his daily routine into turmoil. It's a visit that forces him to confront the ghosts of his past, and one that offers him a final opportunity to make things right.

"Can a play be both brutal and tender, as gentle as it is harsh?...such paradoxes seem utterly natural when describing McPherson's painfully beautiful Dublin Carol...a small treasure"
(Charles Isherwood, Variety)

Directed by Fly on the Wall's Co-Artistic Producer, Rod Ceballos (cited by Now Magazine for Outstanding Direction/2013 Toronto Fringe), Dublin Carol features David Mackett (Port Authority and Cold Comfort with Fly on the Wall), James Wallis and Julia Nish-Lapidus (Co-Artistic Directors of Shakespeare BASH'd). Patrick Brennan (Port Authority with Fly on the Wall) is the Set and Lighting Designer.
